PRICE TWO CENTS

GIRL TO RECEIVE $110,000 AS CHILD OF MRS. CELLA

Announcement Made in Court of Agreement That Miss Elizabeth Flynn Shall Be Heir.

BROUGHT SUIT AS ADOPTED DAUGHTER

Told of Living Seven Years in Home of Cella and of Their Pleas for Her to Agree to Adoption.

When the adoption case of Miss Elizabeth Flynn, 19 years old, of 1445 North Market street, in which she seeks to establish her status as adopted child and heir of Mrs. Agnes Johnson Cella, was about to go to trial in Judge Cahoun's court today it became known that there had been a settlement out of court by which it was agreed that Miss Flynn should be recognized as an heir and should receive 55 per cent of the estate.

One of the attorneys in the case said the estate had an estimated value of $200,000. On this valuation Miss Flynn would receive $110,000.

The remainder of the estate, 45 per cent, will go to a number of collateral heirs, one of whom is Miss Flynn's mother. The Cellas had no children.

Mrs. Cella was the wife of Louis Cella, theater, hotel and race track owner, who died April 29, 1918, leaving half of his estate to Mrs. Cella, who died four days after her husband's death.

Owned Home in County.
It was at first thought that Cella left an estate of several million dollars, but administration of the estate showed his principal holdings were shares in a realty company with a face value of about $450,000. A part of Mrs. Cella's inheritance was the attractive Cella home, Wildwood, in St. Louis County.

The trial was of a formal nature and brief. There was no cross-examination, and at the close of the plaintiff's case a summary of a decree was submitted to the court by counsel representing both sides.

The decree set forth that Miss Flynn was entitled to be legally declared the adopted daughter and principal heir of Mrs. Cella. Judge Cahoun, in taking the case under advisement, said that he desired to read the decree before approving it.

Visited Cella Home Weekly.
The first witness was Miss Flynn's mother, Mrs. Mary Flynn, a cousin of Mrs. Cella, who testified that in 1912, a week after the death of her (Mrs. Flynn's) husband, Mrs. Cella visited her and told her that she would like to rear Elizabeth. An agreement was entered into, Mrs. Flynn said, whereby Elizabeth was to be allowed to go to the country home of the Cellas each Friday evening after school and remain there over Sunday. She also was permitted to spend her vacations and holidays there. The understanding was, Mrs. Flynn said, that she was to be treated as a daughter of the Cellas and was to be considered Mrs. Cella's heir.

In February, 1918, Mrs. Flynn said Mrs. Cella gave Elizabeth jewelry valued at $10,000 and United Railways bonds valued at $11,000. On that occasion, the witness said, Mrs. Cella remarked that she thought her husband would outlive her and that he had promised that he would give Elizabeth the house and the share of his estate.

Miss Frances Bushman and Mrs. Clara Van Ethen, trained nurses, testified that when they were waiting upon the Cellas at the time of their last illness, both seemed to regard Elizabeth as their daughter. Cella spoke of her in a most favorable manner, they said.

Testimony as to Treatment.
Mrs. Carl Hartwig, whose husband was chauffeur for the Cellas, testified that during the five years she and her husband lived at Wildwood, both Cella and his wife treated Miss Flynn as though she were their own daughter.

She said that Miss Flynn was taken by the Cellas on automobile trips to Canada and Hot Springs, and that Cella regularly took her in 8 o'clock buses at Overland Park in his car. He seemed to be deeply solicitous regarding Miss Flynn's spiritual welfare, Mrs. Hartwig said.

Thomas A. Flynn, 4016 Castleman avenue, an uncle of the girl, testified that he met the Cellas and Miss Flynn at the Columbia Theater in December, 1917, and later accompanied them to the American Hotel. Cella referred to Miss Flynn as "the girl of the home," Flynn said.

Dr. Horace Soper, who treated Mrs. Cella in her last illness, testified that she was delirious for a week prior to her death and that she was not conscious of her husband's death.

She Will Share in Cella Estate as Adopted Child

MISS ELIZABETH FLYNN.

WOMAN KILLS CHICAGO ADVERTISING MAN AND SELF

Mystery of His Disappearance Cleared When Bodies Are Found in Former Model's Room.

CHICAGO, March 9.—Mrs. Ruth Randall, pretty divorcee and former artist's model, who was found dead in her room last night, with the body of Clifford Bleyer, wealthy advertising man, by her side, killed the man and then herself. Dr. Joseph Springer, coroner's physician, decided today.

A poem, apparently written by the woman, was found on a slip of paper beside the beds. One verse read:

"Sleep! For my hand is sure,
The cold steel bright and pure.
Strikes through thy heart and mine,
Shedding our blood like wine."

Mrs. Randall was the daughter of H. E. Vale, owner of bakeries in Oklahoma City.

Bleyer is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Andree Gunzler of Paris, France, and two small daughters. He had been missing since January.

HOW TO TURN 10 ENGLISH POUNDS TO 100—THEORETICALLY

Traveler Could Start With Banknote
in Europe—But Silver Is So Scarce Effort Would Be Impracticable.

LONDON, March 9.—Theoretically it would seem possible to turn 10 (normally $20) into 100 more, by taking a short trip through France, Switzerland and Italy, says a Swiss correspondent of the Daily Graphic. He gives this formula:

Take a 10 banknote into France, and change it for 420 silver francs (a franc is normally about 20 cents). With these enter Switzerland, where they will buy 2100 Italian paper lire, then pass into Italy and cash into Italian silver lire. You now have 2100 French francs. Take these back into Switzerland, and you have 2100 Swiss francs, as the silver lire are accepted here as equal in value to Swiss francs. Now buy French paper money, and you will receive 4200 French francs. Return to France, where you buy English notes and you get £100—more or less.

Practically, it is not so easy, as silver coin is rare on the continent, and there is the French prohibition on carrying more than 1000 francs out of the country.

American Slain by Mexican Clerk.
LAREDO, Tex., March 9.—Ray A. Corcoran, superintendent of the San Antonio and Nueces River Electric Co., was shot and killed by a Mexican clerk, a man named Ibarra, after the latter had been discharged for taking an unauthorized leave of absence. Ibarra was immediately arrested and, according to last information received here, still is in jail at Pachuca. Relatives of Corcoran reside here and his body was brought to Laredo and buried March 5.

Two Others, Partly Suffocated, Not Expected to Recover.

GALLIPOLIS, G., March 9.—Eight persons were dead and two are expected to die as a result of a fire which early today destroyed one cottage and the dancing pavilion at the Hotel Hospital for Epileptics. The dead and injured were patients at the institution.

Twenty-five patients were in the cottage when the fire started. The dead all were suffocated. The injured were partly suffocated and burned.

H. G. BECK, FEED COMPANY MANAGER KILLS HIMSELF

Body Found in Stable in Rear of Store on Pine Street
With Bullet Wound in Right Temple.

HAD WORRIED OVER SCARCITY OF HELP

He Was Executor of Father's Estate, Formerly Director of Bank and Member of Merchants' Exchange.

Harry G. Beck, 50 years old, of 2036 Knox avenue, secretary and manager of the H. W. Beck Feed Co., 2001 Pine street, shot and killed himself at 11:30 a. m. today in a stable behind the feed store. The wound was in the right temple, and caused immediate death.

Beck had a wife and six children. He was a member of the Merchants' Exchange, and had a wide business acquaintance.

He was a director of the Union Station Bank when it was closed by the State Banking Commission Aug. 26, 1918. The bank has since been reorganized as the Union Station Trust Co., but Beck was not a director of the reorganized concern.

Beck was an executor of the estate of his father, the late Henry W. Beck, founder of the feed business. The business is controlled by the estate.

Employees said today that Beck had worried over the scarcity of help. He had been unable to get enough drivers and clerks to carry on the firm's business, and in consequence had difficulty in filling orders. He had often expressed his dissatisfaction with these conditions, but the employees had not suspected that he thought of killing himself.

Beck's father, who died in 1917, left personal property valued at $160,349 to his widow, Mrs. Helena K. Beck, then living at 3319 Pine street, and to his four sons, Harry, Charles, George and Jacob, in equal shares. His estate was valued at $200,000. There has not been a final settlement of the estate.

WABASH TO OPPOSE PLAYING CARDS FOR MONEY ON TRAINS

New Special Agents to Watch for Gamblers Who Prey on Travelers.

An attempt to prevent card playing for money and other gambling on trains of the Wabash Railroad will be made by the newly-created Special Service Department, of which S. E. Ward has been named chief special agent, with headquarters in the Railway Exchange Building.

The practice of gambling has in the past, say officials of the new department, proved annoying to many passengers and deputies of the Special Service Department have been instructed to use all means possible to prevent it on all Wabash trains.

The new department has been organized also to protect the property of the company against carelessness, malicious mischief and fires. W. E. Duffy has been named special agent in charge of the St. Louis territory. He will organize a force of men who will work out of the offices here. Duffy says professional gamblers will be warned to make no attempt to ply their trade on the trains and a force of operatives will recognize the majority of this class of gamblers will be selected.

GENERAL MOTORS ADVANCES 61 POINTS ON NEW YORK MARKET

Total of Rise From Yesterday's Low
Mark; Other Stocks Rise on Income Tax Ruling.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Shares of industrial companies likely to decrease stock dividends Janbations on yesterday's income tax ruling of the United States Supreme Court registered further sensational gains early in today's very active stock market session.

General Motors and Crucible Steel were again in the forefront. General Motors opened at a gain of 4 points, but soon extended its gain to 322, an overnight advance of 21 points, and a total of 73 points from yesterday's low.

Crucible Steel lost 2 points at the start, but immediately moved upward to an extreme gain of 13 points at 240, or a total of 49 points from yesterday's minimum.

Other motor and steel shares were 2 to 5 points over yesterday's final prices. Shipings, oils and leathers also rose to a similar extent, but rails made only moderate gains.

Profit-taking cut into the advance during the first hour. General Motors falling back 12 points and Crucible Steel 10 points.

Dealings up to 11 o'clock were on the largest and most diversified scale of any day so far this year, the turnover approximating 500,000 shares.

URBANA, Ill., March 9.—President Edmund James of the University of Illinois tendered his resignation to the Board of Trustees today. He had been president of the university for 15 years. Since the beginning of the school year he had been on a year's leave of absence.

Dr. David Kinley, vice president, has been acting president.

West Virginian Racing With Time to Cast His Vote for Woman Suffrage

Senator Speeding Home on $5000 Special Train in Effort to Break Deadlock and Finish 34th State to Cause.

CHICAGO, March 9.—Undeterred by news that he may arrive too late, Jesse A. Bloch, State Senator of West Virginia, left Chicago at 12 o'clock on a special train in an effort to reach Charleston in time to cast a deciding vote for woman suffrage.

Advised by the Associated Press that Senator A. R. Montgomery, listed as an anti-suffragist, had reached Charleston and that, even if the vote could be delayed until his arrival, he probably would only bring about a tie, Senator Bloch said he would make the trip anyway.

He arrived here at 11:30 o'clock from California, where he has been spending a vacation with Mrs. Bloch. The Republican National Committee had a special train and an airplane waiting. The Senator and Mrs. Bloch were met by Virgil Highland, Republican National Committee man from West Virginia, and Capt. Victor Heintz, in charge of the Republican headquarters here.

The situation was hastily explained. The railroad representative who was present stated his special coach reached Cincinnati in six hours, making connections there at 7 o'clock tonight for Charleston. C. R. Borkland, the flyer, offered to cut the time to three hours. Mrs. Bloch cast the deciding vote for the train.

The special train cost the Republican National Committee $5000. The aviator had offered to make the trip for $300.

Senator Montgomery, listed as an anti-suffragist, arrived in Charleston today, and it was announced by opponents of the Anthony amendment that he would break the deadlock in the Senate this afternoon and allow that body to adjourn before Senator Bloch, the suffragist who is hastening here from California, could arrive to vote for ratification.

Senator Montgomery some time ago resigned from the Senate and has been carried on the roll during the extra session.

The West Virginia Senate is deadlocked, 14 to 14, on ratification. Senator Bloch is for ratification. If the amendment carries West Virginia will be the thirty-fourth state to ratify the woman suffrage amendment.

Supporters of Suffrage Prevent Montgomery From Voting.
They also brought about adjournment after they had asked Gov. Cornwell to provide the Senate with a copy of the letter which, it is said, Senator Montgomery wrote to him after he had moved from West Virginia to Illinois.

CASHIER SLAIN IN ATTEMPT TO ROB KANSAS CITY BANK

Four Men Fire When Doors
Are Closed on Their Approach to Institution in Residence District.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 9.—Glenn Shockey, cashier of the South Side Bank, located at Thirty-ninth and Main streets, in the heart of the residence district of Kansas City, was killed during an attempt by four men to hold up the bank this morning.

An official of the bank said the four men reach for their weapons as they approached the door of the bank and attempted to close the door. One of the robbers fired and the shot grazed the cashier's head. Another shot, hitting the cashier in the chest, prevented the entrance of the men resulted in further shots being fired. One of these killed Shockey, who was behind the counter.

The men then fled without getting near the counter. They made their escape in a motor car.

The South Side Bank was held up Feb. 12 by one man who escaped with $4400 in cash.

As the four men forced their way through the doorway of the bank Henry Strohmeyer, bookkeeper, dropped behind his desk and with a revolver opened fire on the robbers. Shockey likewise is said to have fired a revolver from his cage.

As the robbers leaped into their motor car, a shot struck the last man and he crumpled. His companions dragged him into the car as it sped away.

A motor car salesman gave chase for several blocks through the residence district but was left behind. Maurice J. McNellis, treasurer, was slightly wounded when the bandits opened fire as they entered the bank. He was unable to say if he was knocked down by a bullet or if he was knocked down by the bandit.

Four bullets struck Shockey and he died within a few minutes.

Branstetter, national secretary.

National committee men report a "widened and insistent demand" for the nomination of Debs, now in Atlanta penitentiary.

10-YEAR SENTENCE IN MRS. STOKES' CASE REVERSED

U. S. Court of Appeals Here
Remands for Retrial Kansas
City Espionage Act
Case of June, 1918.

CHARGE OF JUDGE HELD PREJUDICIAL

Wealthy New York Woman
Was Indicted on a Letter
Written to a Newspaper
About Profiteers.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, in an opinion handed down here today, reversed the verdict by which Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, wealthy New York Socialist, was convicted in Kansas City, in June, 1918, of violating the espionage act, and was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment. It remanded the case for a new trial.

The ground of the Appellate Court's judgment was that the charge given to the jury by District Judge A. S. Van Valkenburgh was prejudicial to the defendant.

The Appellate Court holds that "there was substantial evidence at the trial in support of the verdict against the defendant." It declares that Judge Van Valkenburgh acted correctly in overruling a motion to take the case from the jury, and in overruling various demurrers offered by the defense, but that he went too far in his charge to the jury.

Indicted on Letter.
The specific act for which Mrs. Stokes was indicted was the writing of a communication to the Kansas City Star, explaining utterances in her public speeches in and near Kansas City. In this letter, Mrs. Stokes said:

"No government which is for the profiteers can also be for the people. I am for the people, while the Government is for the profiteers."

Judge Sanborn gave an opinion of the Court of Appeals, in which Judges Stone and Carland concurred. Judge Sanborn, in reviewing the utterances of Judge Van Valkenburgh to the jury, said that, as having quoted the resolution of Congress declaring a state of war with Germany.

Resolution Is Cited.
"The Imperial German Government," Judge Van Valkenburgh said in citing the resolution, "committed repeated acts of war against the United States, and war was thrust upon the United States. The President based our entrance into the war upon the highest grounds of humanity and self-interest."

"From the evidence," Judge Van Valkenburgh continued in his instructions to the jury, "you are to determine what the defendant meant by this statement, and what, if anything, she intended to accomplish by it."

"The Court will refer to her explanation a little later."

But Judge Sanborn declares, in reviewing the instructions, Judge Van Valkenburgh apparently forgot or overlooked this matter, as he failed to set forth the defendant's explanation as to the matter of the espionage act, Judge Sanborn continued.

"The charge contains a several places a clear and inspiring exhibition of patriotism, and of the nobility of our aims in the war, which could hardly have failed to incite to the commendable patriotic feeling which was already aflame in the heart of every jurymen."

Declared Law Clearly.
"Its declaration of the law was clear and convincing, though sometimes blended with comments which it is difficult to separate from it."

"When the charge is considered in the light of the time and circumstances surrounding the trial, of the many side issues and of other characteristics of the charge (to the jury), this Court is unable to resist the conviction that the partisan zeal of the court below (the District Court in Kansas City) led it to place too heavy a burden on the defendant, in her endeavor to meet the evidence which the Government produced against her; and that the cause of the administration of justice will be served by another trial of this case."

Judge Carland, in a concurring opinion, raises the point of Judge Van Valkenburgh's instruction to the jury on the matter of Mrs. Stokes' belief in an internationalist. He said Judge Van Valkenburgh told the jury that Mrs. Stokes was not on trial for being an internationalist, but that her views should be considered. Judge Carland says that, if the jury could resolve the question of the defendant's intent by considering her views, it was difficult to see that the jury might not convict her on the ground held by Judge Carland, that internationalism is incompatible with patriotism; but we should be very careful not to punish a citizen for opinions honestly held.

Mrs. Stokes said, in her testimony at her trial in Kansas City, that she had not intended to cause insubordination or refusal of military service, or obstruct recruiting.

LODGE SAYS WILSON LETTER JUSTIFIES HIS FIGHT ON ARTICLE X

Text of New Modified Article X Reservation, and Lodge Reservation

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The text of the modified article 10 reservation as it is understood to have been assented to by the Republican leaders today is as follows:

"The United States assumes no obligation to employ its military or naval forces, its resources, or any form of economic discrimination to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country, or to interfere in controversies between nations whether members of the league or not, under the provisions of article 10, or to employ the military or naval forces of the United States under any article of the treaty for any purpose unless in any particular case the Congress, in the exercise of full liberty of action, shall by act or joint resolution, so declare."

As adopted last session the Lodge reservation read:

"The United States assumes no obligation to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country or to interfere in controversies between nations—whether members of the league or not—under the provisions of article 10, or to employ the military or naval forces of the United States under any article of the treaty for any purpose, unless in any particular case the Congress, which under the Constitution, has the sole power to declare war or authorize the employment of the military or naval forces of the United States, shall by act or joint resolution so provide."

Declarations as to France.
Senator Lodge said he thought the President's declaration that the French militaristic element had been defeated at the peace conference, but now has regained control, was "most unfortunate."

"I regret extremely," such a reflection on one of our associates in the war," he said. "I do not think France is in the least militaristic."

"I regret that the President also should have taken occasion to say something about Italy. The President says Italy's desire for Fiume is based on considerations of military strategy. That is true. Since when has it become a crime for a nation to seek self-protection?"

Senator Lodge also read the President's statement that he was not willing to trust to counsel of diplomats "the working out of any salvation of the world," and continued:

"The whole peace conference was a collection of diplomats. The result was an alliance in which the representatives of all countries are diplomats governed by the interests of their own Governments and by considerations of political expediency."

Senator Owen, Democrat, Oklahoma, who has voted for many reservations, said he refused to be a party to the defeat of the treaty or to its delay.

"To keep the United States out of the league because of the very small differences between the President and Senator Lodge would be defeating a very great end for a very small one," said he.

The action left only the article 10 reservation to be disposed of. But a motion of Senator Lodge, adjournment was taken without starting debate on that subject.

Seventeen Democrats voted with the Republicans for the voting power reservation. They were Senators Ashurst, Arizona; Chamberlain, Oregon; Fletcher, Florida; Gore, Oklahoma; Henderson, Nevada; Kirby, Arkansas; Myers, Montana; Nugent, Idaho; Owen, Oklahoma; Phelps, California; Pittman, Nevada; Pomerehne, Ohio; Reed, Missouri; Shields, Tennessee; Smith, Georgia; Tamm, Florida; and Walsh, Massachusetts.

In its original form it had been adopted in November by a vote of 55 to 38, with only eight Democrats supporting it.

Modified Draft of Resolution Assented to.
A modified draft of the Republican article 10 reservation to the peace treaty is understood to have been assented to today by a number of Republican leaders working with the Democrats for a ratification compromise.

The new reservation is said to follow in general the outline of the original Republican proposal adopted last November, but to contain a number of changes in wording agreed to at the suggestion of Democrats.

Republican Senators who helped work out the modifications seem confident that the new reservation will have the approval of Senator Lodge. It is understood, however, that the Democratic leader, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, has not given his assent to it.

Slow in Promising Support.
Democratic Senators were slow in promising their support. But they weighed the meaning of the bill.

WAR PROLONGED BY DELAY OF U.S. NAVY, SIMS SAYS

Rear Admiral Charges Department's Failure to Act Promptly in 1917 Lengthened Struggle 4 Months.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 9.—Rear Admiral Sims today told the Senate committee investigating the navy's conduct of the war that the failure of the Navy Department to act promptly on recommendations and to place the country's entire naval resources at the disposal of the allies within six months after the United States entered the war prolonged the struggle for at least four months and unnecessarily jeopardized the outcome.

Declaring that 3000 lives were lost and $100,000,000 spent every day of the war, the Admiral said the conclusions were obvious. He said that his statements constituted "an attack" on anyone and characterized as "ridiculous" statements that he was attacking civilian control of the Navy Department which, he said, was essential.

The navy, he said, was not properly prepared in April, 1917, and the administrative machinery was cumbersome and inefficient. He denied that his statements constituted "an attack" on anyone and characterized as "ridiculous" statements that he was attacking civilian control of the Navy Department which, he said, was essential.

"I am at the end of my career and have nothing to gain and all to lose," said Admiral Sims. He wished to be set right in the eyes of the country and to refute widespread criticisms that he was "throwing mud at the navy," Admiral Sims declared. He said he raised no question of the efficiency of the navy's participation in the war, viewed in its entirety and without regard to the time element and was unable to express adequately his admiration for the navy's performance in the war "in so far as the machinery that controlled it permitted."

Embarrassed by Implications. Declaring that he had raised questions about the efficiency of the navy solely because he had felt it his duty to point out errors in naval administration, the Admiral said he had been "much embarrassed by implications of insubordination and impropriety." He also vigorously attacked what he characterized as "efforts to convict me of divided allegiance" and of being "pro-British," saying that he happened to be born in Canada because his mother was there on a visit.

"If they didn't want a man who was pro-British and pro-French to sit in the councils of the allies why didn't they send a pro-German with a trunkful of bombs?" asked the Admiral. Declaring that he was "sorely embarrassed" by reason of lack of confidence and co-operation from the Navy Department during the most trying days of the war, Admiral Sims said he repeatedly asked the department to relieve him if he had lost its confidence.

The Admiral was the first witness at the opening of the inquiry, and when he had concluded his testimony, a prepared statement the committee recessed until tomorrow without cross-questioning him. His statement set forth in detail his criticisms of the Navy Department's method of conducting its participation in the war.

SECOND DIVORCE SUIT AGAINST CARTOONIST KNOTT WITHDRAWN

Lawyer Acts on Telephoned Instructions from Mrs. Knott—Action Brought Feb. 26.

The second divorce suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Knott of 6300 Enright avenue against Jean Knott, comic illustrator and author of "Penny Ante" and "Let the Wedding Bells Ring Out," was withdrawn today by Mrs. Knott's attorney, Chase Morsey. He said Mrs. Knott would pay the costs thus far incurred in the suit.

The lawyer said he acted on instructions received by telephone from his client. He did not know whether there had been a reconciliation between the Knotts. Mrs. Knott obtained a divorce from Knott in July, 1916, with custody of their daughter, Ruth, then 5 years old. They were remarried in New York in February, 1917, and since that time Knott has spent much of his time in St. Louis, though the evidence by which is employed has its headquarters in New York. She filed suit Feb. 26 last for a second divorce, alleging neglect and lack of affection. Knott has been living at the Missouri Athletic Association recently.

AUTO PRICED AT $4500 ON DISPLAY AT USED CAR SHOW

Trimings and Elaborate Colors
Keep Machines at Sales Exhibition From Being "Cheap."

The third annual St. Louis Auto Sales Show of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers Association opened last night in the Southern Hotel. It will be continued through Saturday, the daily hours being 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. The admission price is 50 cents, including tax.

A used car, for the purpose of this show, is one that has had at least one ownership other than the manufacturer and distributor. This bars demonstrating cars.

Dealers, unhampered by the restrictions of list prices, have trimmed up cars with accessories and elaborate color designs so that "used" is not necessarily synonymous with "cheap," some of the tags on the floor reading $4000 and one $4500.

Many of the opening night visitors were those owning automobiles and desiring to purchase later models.

They viewed the used car show as an opportunity to judge what to expect on turn-in of their used cars. For this reason salesmen swarmed the show seeking customers.

The attendance last night was said to have been larger than on opening night last year.

that he had again forwarded his resignation, as commandant of the naval prison here and from the

RHODE ISLAND SAYS DRY LAW INVADES RIGHTS OF STATES

State Attorney-General Before U. S. Supreme Court Alleges a Constitutional Revolt.

GOVERNMENT SAYS IT ADDS TO BASIC LAW

U. S. Attorney Argues That Court Has No Jurisdiction
—Kentucky Appeals Involved Also.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Rhode Island's legal attack on the prohibition amendment to the Federal Constitution was argued in Supreme Court yesterday, assisted by the complainants as revolutionary and an invasion of State's rights, and defended by the Government as a legiti-mate addition to the nation's basic law over which the court held no jurisdiction.

Thronged attended the session of the court to hear the arguments.
Many persons waited outside the doors throughout the morning.

Herbert A. Rice, Attorney-General of Rhode Island, opened for the opposition, and William L. Frieson, Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, replied for the Government. Other arguments will be heard tomorrow, as well as appeals from Kentucky and Massachusetts involving the same questions.

Rice charged there was in progress
a "constitutional revolution through amendments."

"I see more danger in the doctrines urged by the Government than any doctrine urged by the demagogues during the world war," he said. "The rights assured the people under the tenth amendment were never intended to be taken away."

Rice argued that the prohibition amendment resulted from a misconception of the law by Congress and that the Federal Government had no authority to make such a change in the Constitution as the amendment provides. Declaring that "amendment" means a correction, he said the terms of the prohibition amendment are clearly outside the purview of the Constitution.

"What about the thirteenth amendment abolishing slavery?" inquired Justice Pitney.

"That was a compromise amendment and corrected an error in the Constitution," answered Rice.

Justice Brandeis asked what power could bring about the conditions imposed by the eighteenth amendment.

"There is no power in the United States Constitution to make such a change unless it could be done by unanimous consent of the State and the people of the United States," Rice said. "There is no power and there was never intended to be such power for encroachment by the Federal Government upon the powers of the states."

"Wasn't slavery supported by the police power of the States?" Justice McReynolds asked.

"Yes," replied Rice, "but it was a police power to regulate."

Rice told the Court that the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments "were written into the Constitution by force," and not with the voluntary assent of the Southern States.

Assistant Attorney-General Frieson argued there was nothing revolutionary in the adoption of an amendment that lays down a "fundamental rule of law" that applies to all states.

"The case does involve the question as to whether a state can come into a Federal court and enjoin the enforcement of a criminal law on the ground the law is unconstitutional," he added.

"I have never understood this court, at the instance of a state, could be constituted into a forum in which to debate the respective political rights of the two governments.
If that is the case, any state can come in and do that before the property rights of individual citizens have been injured. We have here the bald question as to whether a state can invoke the jurisdiction of a court to protect its citizens, who are citizens of the United States, from orderly prosecution in the courts of those citizens who have violated an act of Congress."

The court granted permission for the filing of briefs by Charles E.
Hughes on behalf of 24 states and by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of America, supporting the amendment, and by Elihu Root, in opposition to the amendment on behalf of the United States Brewers' Association.

car at Edgewood Station yesterday afternoon, suffering a fractured skull and internal injuries. She was Later she was removed to the Mul-

it was said there was little hope for her recovery.

Mrs. Hughes was crossing the tracks to board a westbound street

WHITE OWL

An Exception!

It is seldom now that you can buy high-quality articles at moderate prices. White Owl, however, is one of the exceptions to the rule. It is a cigar high in value but low in price.

More than that, the mellow fragrance of White Owl never varies. Its fine aroma comes from the character of its tobacco, carefully selected and cured by experts,
who know the true meaning of "ripe, mellow tobacco."

White Owl looks like an aristocrat and smokes like one, too. That's another reason for White Owl popularity.

The standing of White Owl is guaranteed by the great resources and long experience of the General Cigar Co., Inc.

BARRY CO. CITIZENS OPPOSE ROAD CHANGE

Brother of Chairman of Commission Benefited by New Route, Is Charge.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 9.—A body of citizens from Barry County served notice on the State Highway Commission today that unless the commission overrules its designation of State roads in that county this afternoon they will appeal to Gov. Gardner.

The Barry County party, led by John P. Ray, postmaster of Cassville, the county seat, brought with them documents which they say will show the following facts: Under direction of the commission the Barry County Court submitted its recommendations for a State road through the county. The roads recommended were examined and approved by State Highway Engineer A. W. Graham. The road recommended by the County Court runs through Cassville, the county seat.

When the commission met, however, to designate the Barry County roads, Chairman Sanford, whose home is at Springfield, favored another road. Yielding to Sanford's judgment, two members of the board voted with Sanford and the road recommended by the County Court and the State Engineer was ruled out, and another road designated which runs about five miles from the county seat.

Brother Files Deed.
This action was taken Feb. 10. On Feb. 24 W. B. Sanford, brother of the chairman and an officer in the Holland Bank at Springfield, of which E. L. Sanford is vice-president, filed for record in Barry County a deed to 300 acres of land less than two miles from the road which had been designated by the commission, at his brother's request.

The deed which was filed for record was dated Oct. 20, 1919, showing the land had been bought by Sanford's brother several months before the road was designated.

A member of the commission said the location of the road would enhance the value of the farm bought by Sanford's brother substantially, but declined to estimate how much.

The Cassville delegation also have in their possession a letter written recently by the Holland Banking Co. of Springfield, of which the Sanfords are officers, to the County Recorder of Barry County asking for a certified copy of an $8500 mortgage against a tract of 360 acres, which lies along the side of the road designated by the commission.

Britton Refused to Yield.
Maj. Roy E. Britton of St. Louis, a member of the Highway Commission, refused to yield to Sanford when the board was passing on the Barry County road and voted for the road recommended by the County Court and the State Engineer.

Britton told the Post-Dispatch correspondent he voted for the county seat road because no good reason was advanced as to why the recommendation of the commission's chief engineer should be overruled.

ACCUSED OF ALLOWING FARM STOCK TO STARVE

Manager of Farm Loan Association Arrested on Complaint of Farmer Next to Him.

William H. Taylor of 4448 West Belle place, secretary of the National Farm Loan Association, with offices in the "Old Fellows" Building, was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Brooks of St. Louis County charging him with allowing livestock to starve on his farm, about eight miles west of Clayton. He was released on $500 bond for appearance in court at Clayton at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Brooks received a telephone call yesterday from Gustave Moreau, whose farm adjoins that owned by Taylor, and who said that the stock on the Taylor farm was starving to death. Moreau asking that an investigation be made.

On a visit to the farm Brooks found 42 head of livestock, comprising 26 cows, 2 hogs, 2 mules, 4 horses and 8 calves, in charge of Claude House, 12 years old, and with but one and one-half bushels of oats for feed. In the farmhouse was an elderly woman, who could give no information because of inability to hear questions. The boy told Brooks that until last week a man named Swain had been in charge of the farm as manager, but had quit because Taylor did not provide food for the stock.

Brooks said that he found the carcasses of four animals, which had been dead for some time, also a horse and a cow which had apparently died the day before, a colt which was dying from starvation and a cow lying in a ravine, also dying. He said there was no fresh water on the farm and the stock was drinking the seepage from the barnyard. Taylor, when arrested and taken to Clayton, said that the stock was the property of his son, Roy Taylor, who had recently been discharged from the army. He said he had no idea the stock was being underfed and that last Saturday he ordered a truck load of hay sent to the farm for food.

WINE POURED OUT BECAUSE OF SHORTAGE OF STORAGE SPACE

15 Barrels Seized in Basement of Vacant House Poured in Sewer Under Federal Building.
Space in the Federal Building has been so taxed by the storage of liquors confiscated by prohibition enforcement officers that it was found necessary today to destroy 15 50-gallon barrels of grape and raisin wine taken last Thursday night from the cellar of a vacant house at 713 Wash street.

The wine was poured into the sewer beneath the building, increasing the odor of spirituous liquor which has permeated the atmosphere in the basement of the building. It is quite likely that the same thing will be done with all liquors seized from now on, where ownership is not established.

Switchman Knocked From Car.

Charles Scott, 48 years old, of 1227A Chambers street, a switchman for the Wabash Railroad, suffered a fractured spine and internal injuries early today when he was knocked from the top of a moving freight car in the yards at Second and De Soto streets as the car rounded a curve. He was taken to St. Mary's Infirmary.

How Often do You get Really Refreshing Sleep

ONCE in a while perhaps you get up feeling like a new man.

But it doesn't happen often—unless you are the exception, or have been very lucky in your choice of a bed.

Beds are made to sleep in—yet the chances are that your bed (whether wood or the ordinary metal bed) creaks slightly here, is a little unsteady there. Not much perhaps, but quite enough to disturb that complete relaxation you must have for perfect repose.

It is wonderful how the right kind of Bed Spring invites perfect relaxation and deep, sound sleep.

The good spring is taut and flat, yet resilient. It supports the body at ease in any sleeping position—conforms to the contours—never weakens, lumps or sags.

Look at the Springs built by Simmons Company—Springs built for sleep!

PRESBYTERY VOTES AGAINST JOINING IN INTERCHURCH MOVE

Ministers Oppose Campaign on Ground of Extravagant Expenditures and Origin Outside of Church.

Ministers of the St. Louis Presbytery, by a vote of 24 to 4, yesterday disapproved participation in the Interchurch World Movement, which is a program for the raising and expenditure of millions of dollars, with a view to unifying the Protestant churches and increasing their membership and influence.

The Rev. Dr. James Hardin Smith of North Church was the only minister actively favoring the movement in the discussion. The resolutions adopted were in opposition to the movement on these grounds:

"That it originated outside the church, and is assuming such proportions and obligations that it is becoming a peril to the church; that its financial expenditures are extravagant, with large forces of workers, endless institutes, conferences and conventions, with delegates' expenses paid by the movement; that its expenditures for office rent in New York were enormous; and that its method of obtaining financial support from outside sources is objectionable."

The ministers met at the Washington and Compton avenue church, and were addressed by H. B. McAtee of Kansas City, a layman, state organizer of the financial campaign of the Interchurch World Movement. He declared that the action of the Presbyterian churches would influence that of other Protestant churches in St. Louis, and that the Church Federation of St. Louis, which has been co-operating in the movement, could not give effective co-operation without the approval of the Presbyterian ministers.

Saw No Way to Carry Out Aims.

The Rev. Dr. D. M. Skilling, pastor of Webster Groves Church, and moderator of the Presbytery, said he attended the recent conference of the Interchurch World Movement in Kansas City, paying his own expenses, because he wished to get a clear idea of what was proposed. He said he was impressed by the announced aims of the movement, evangelism, education and hospital work, but did not find the means for carrying out these aims. He said he got the impression that the movement was "just another thing that the churches will have to pay for," without bringing results of a commensurate value.

Dr. McIvor of the Second Church, Dr. Davis of the First Church and Dr. Hulbert of King's Highway Church asked questions and voiced unfavorable views of the movement. Dr. H. Magill, stated clerk of the Presbytery, said that the executive commission of the Presbyterian General Assembly, held in St. Louis last spring, exceeded its authority in endorsing the movement, and that this matter was to be taken up anew on the floor of the assembly.

Termed "Inter-Scheme Movement."

"It is an inter-scheme movement, not an inter-church movement," Dr. Magill declared. He questioned whether any other denomination was thoroughly committed to it.

SOME LONG, LONG HOSIERY MISSING IN ORPHEUM REVUE

Bathing Suit Posing and Harem Dancing Featured on Vaudeville Bill.

Bathing suit posing and harem costuming and dancing are featured in the principal act on the Orpheum Theater's bill this week, which is announced as Bothwell Browne's Revue. Eight girls and two men assist Browne, and two of the girls wear stockings, the rest not being so favored. The missing stockings are very long ones. The flag is misused as drapery for one of these bare-legged posers. A shimmering—not shimmering—dance is executed by Browne in the harem scene. The Browne sisters sympathize with accordeons. The setting of the act is colorful, and in the revue style.

Paul Decker discourses very entertainingly of finance, economics and floor scrubbing at $12 a week, in the sketch, "And Son," in which he is well supported by three others. James H. Cullen, singer of ditties, is proclaimed as "The Man from the West." Food must be plentiful out west. His later songs and sign-readings are better than his first song. At the end, he robbed the cradle of high school lyrics, taking "The Wild Man of Bornoeo."

"Dainty Marie," aerialist, comes appropriately after a rough act by Ryan and Lee. The flying rings never seem to fly too high for Marie, whose other name is Meeker, and who wears a white-union suit. A fall Asiatie, announced as Kharrum, the Persian pianist, plays several selections, rendering the Sextet from Lucia with one hand. Why not one finger? A "music box" selection is the most pleasing of his numbers. A juvenile act and a golfing skit of high alcoholic content, make up the show.

FRED PATTON WILL SING IN PLACE OF MIDDLETON TONIGHT

Arthur Middleton, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Co., is ill with influenza in New York, it is announced, and will be unable to take part in the Paganini Choral Society's production of "Paradise Lost" tonight at the Odeon.

As a substitute Director Fischer has engaged Fred Patton, basso, of New York, who is said to have studied singing while in business in New York, and to have entered concert work a year ago.

NEWELL POLICY

Why Our Used Cars Are Correctly Priced

To successfully merchandise any article it is essential to purchase it at the right figure, that is in keeping with the demand, and dispose of it at a figure carrying a legitimate profit.

We, as Distributors of the Paige and Stearns, devote our every effort to the sale of the New Paige and Stearns cars, but in the solicitation of the trade, conditions at times necessitate the acceptance of used cars as part payment on new ones purchased.

These Used Cars are worth the figure allowed by us, and in the appraising no false values are given to terminate the sale, as it would mean a loss of our profit with no recourse to recover the inflated value through resale of the used car.

Our operating expense is kept in harmony with the legitimate profit allowed by the factories who fix the price of their product—this enables us to keep our service to NEWELL STANDARD.

Time and effort given to the resale of these used cars could be spent to better advantage in the sales of New Cars, and for this reason we allow only the value or amount on the trade-in car that we know it to be worth—nothing more. Hence the reason for our prices.

We make no attempt to inflate the resale price, as the car represents to us only the amount of money we allowed on it, and for this reason we are in position to offer our Used Cars at prices that are right.

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

Do you know what it means? If not—turn to the Book of Daniel and read the 5th Chapter. Then ask yourself whether you are ignorantly or carelessly numbering your days or finishing your life?

To neglect the care of the body—to let an ailment grow into a disease when there's work yet to be done—is a sin against self—family—friends and humanity. The chief source of diseases which spring from internal ailments is a poisoned bowel. A bowel where clogged foods are chemically shooting poisonous-harm through your whole system, is nothing less than a pest-house. Clean out the pest-house. To do it is simple and easy. Do it with—

SALINAS

You owe it to yourself to put yourself right—and then to keep yourself right. "Salinas"—a natural remedy—is best adapted to that purpose, and of all "salts" Salinas is the most scientifically compounded and efficient. Salinas works wonders! It acts on the liver, kidney and both upper and lower bowel at one and the same time. It acts safely and agreeably. It is not unpleasant to take. It effectives in cold (or hot) water.

Thousand of doctors prescribe Salinas. Four out of five druggists recommend Salinas. Why not get a bottle of Salinas—and use it? You'll surely like it!

RECIPE TO CLEAR
A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are impurities seeking an outlet through skin pores.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus causing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

Were You One of the Fortunate
First-Night Buyers?

Those who attended the USED CAR SHOW last night gained a new idea of a "Used Car". They saw three hundred cars, most of them fresh from the paint shop—cars that were hard to distinguish from new cars, so thorough had been the work of the dealers in preparing them for the Show.

Many took advantage to inspect the cream of the used car offerings which the dealers had concentrated at the Show, making their choice last night, and today they are driving their own car.

A Few Facts to Remember About the Used Car Show

The cars shown are exchanged cars, having been taken in exchange for new cars by the dealers who are showing them.

All exhibitors are members of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Assn., which is a guarantee of their responsibility.

The display is extremely complete—comprising limousines, sedans, coupes, touring cars, sport models and roadsters.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

What It Is and How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Many Instances

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL
Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who."

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of these physicians to thin, delicate, nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by Julius & Dolph, Enderle Drug Co., Johnson Bros.

Drugs Co., Wolf-Wilson Drug Co. and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever-increasing quantities. Frederick Kolbe, M. D., editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Joseph D. Harrigan, former Visiting Specialist to Northwestern Dispensary, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anemic or run down take a natural, unadulterated substance, such as bitro-phosphate, and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensary as being an excellent tonic and nerve and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, strength and purity of its substance is beyond question for every bitro-phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. Bitro-Phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely advertised "cure-alls."

CAUTION—While Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh should take extra care in avoiding fattening foods.

GRADE TEACHERS AGREE ON SALARY SCHEDULE

Demands Opposing Withers' Suggestions Adopted for Presentation to Board.

Resolutions demanding a maximum salary of $2000 a year, after six years' service, for second assistants, a maximum of $2100 for first assistants and $2250 for head assistants, will be submitted to the Board of Education at its meeting tonight by the Grade Teachers' Association.

The resolutions were adopted by the association at a meeting last night at Central High School, attended by about 400 of the 1400 members of the organization. The schedule suggested by the teachers fixed a maximum of $2000 in salary between the different ranks of grade teachers than that presented by Supt. Withers last week.

Although a number of the less conservative members of the organization urged elimination of rank and insisted that the "dignity of the profession" demanded that all the grade teachers be placed on an equal footing and salary basis, the resolutions, as they had been drafted by a committee selected last Friday, were adopted by an overwhelming majority.

The meeting was executive. Miss Rosa Hesse of Sigel School, president of the association, pleaded with her associates to throw open the doors to newspaper reporters. She said she believed the teachers should take the public into their confidence in their fight for adequate salaries, as the people were behind the teachers, but when the proposition was put to a vote it was defeated. Several teachers said that they could not speak freely if reporters were present.

The text of the resolution was not given out for publication, as the teachers stated it would be unethical to make it public before it reached the members of the board.

County Teachers Discuss Means of Obtaining More Pay.
Public school teachers of St. Louis County yesterday attended the annual meeting of the St. Louis County Board of Education at Clayton and discussed ways to obtain an increase in salaries.

Two sessions were held, the forenoon meeting being in the courthouse and the afternoon session at the Clayton High School. There were 270 teachers present. The chief addresses were made by State Supt. Sam A. Baker, County Supt. R. G. Russell and Mrs. Marie Harvey Turner of Kirksville, Mo.

Supt. Russell pointed out that there were 25,000 school children in St. Louis County and that the wealth of the county was estimated at $100,000,000. The average salary paid the 506 teachers, he said, was between $60 and $100 a month. Six teachers are earning less than $50 a month, he said, and a very small percentage are getting more than $100.

An amendment to the State Constitution, permitting County School Districts to increase their school taxes according to their individual means, was recommended. There are 76 rural schools in St. Louis County and 17 consolidated school districts in incorporated towns of the county.

WIDOW FOUND DEAD IN BED

Mrs. Pauline Johansen, 76 years old, a widow, of 3917 Olive street, was found dead in bed at her home at 5 p. m. yesterday when friends, receiving no response to their knocks, had the police force the door of her room.

A coal oil lamp was burning on the table, indicating that she had died Sunday night. A bank book in the room showed Mrs. Johansen had $300 on deposit. She has a son, Edward J. Johansen, living at 647 Hancock avenue. Death is supposed to have resulted from natural causes.

STOLEN GROCERIES RECOVERED

Store Keeper Says He Paid $600 for Lot Valued at $3000.
Seventy cases of canned goods and 3250 pounds of sugar, valued at $2000, which have been identified as part of a wagon load of groceries, valued at $3000, stolen from Garrison and East avenues, March 5, yesterday were recovered in the grocery of Harry Meyers, 39 years old, 1635 Carr street. Meyers was arrested and gave the name of a man to whom he said he paid $600 for the goods.

TWO INJURED IN 29-FOOT FALL

Derrick Collapses, Hurling Men to Floor at Grand-Leader Building.
Julius Fehse, 35, 926 Hickory street, and Willis Wendling, 45, 1210 Walton avenue, iron workers, were seriously injured yesterday at 4:30 p. m. when a derrick they were erecting collapsed on the ninth floor of the new Grand-Leader building. Seventh street and Washington avenue. They were hurled 29 feet to the eighth floor below. Fehse suffered a fractured skull and Wendling concussion of the brain and internal injuries. Both were taken to the city hospital.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. Yet now, at an age over 60, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asserted would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as profuse as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy in expressing my state of mind. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp. The fertilizing potency of the mysterious medicine. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle in preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had my bottle put into practical form by a chemist. That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoos (which contain alkali) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

PRO-REED FORCES TO MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

Meeting Called to Determine What Action Will Be Taken in Defending Senator.

Aroused by the anti-Reed and pro-league of nations attitude expressed by Democratic county conventions out in the State which have selected delegates to the Democratic State convention in Joplin April 22, pro-Reed and anti-league of nations Democrats of St. Louis have decided to call meetings of their forces to determine whether to go into the convention to defend Reed and oppose endorsement of the league.

Dr. Robert Emmet Kane, president of the Friends of Irish Freedom, who has been a leader in the anti-league movement in St. Louis, announced yesterday that the Central Council of the Friends of Irish Freedom would meet Friday evening in Knights of Columbus Hall to decide upon the course to be followed.

The Executive Committee of the Missouri League for the Preservation of American Independence also is considering action.

Four Conventions Held. Only four Democratic County conventions have been held. In Jasper and Madison counties delegates to the State convention were instructed to vote against Reed for delegate to the national convention. In those counties and in Phelps and Bates counties yesterday resolutions endorsing the league of nations were adopted.

In Phelps County the resolutions deplored the fact "that both Missouri Senators will find all manner of excuse to vote against the adoption of the league of nations covenant."

The Bates County convention, while not mentioning Reed, instructed its delegates to vote against anybody for delegate to the national convention who was not in sympathy with President Wilson and the league of nations.

The Phelps County Convention endorsed Frank H. Harris for the nomination for Governor, Gov. Gardner and the Rev. Dr. Burris Jenkins of Kansas City for delegates at large to the National Convention, and Edward F. Goltra for re-election as National Committeeman. Judge W. W. Graves of the Missouri Supreme Court was endorsed for delegate at large by the Bates County Convention, and John H. Stone of Bates County for State Treasurer.

Call Not Yet Interpreted.

Chairman Neale of the Democratic State Committee is awaiting approval by members of the State Committee before promulgating interpretations of the call for the State Convention recommended by the special committee which considered objections of St. Louis Democrats to the consideration given women in the call.

The committee recommended that the call be interpreted to mean that in the selection of women delegates the women in ward and county conventions should not vote separately from the men, and that instead of being required to elect an equal number of men and women delegates, the counties and wards were to make the number "as nearly equal as possible."

Neale said over the long distance telephone from his home in Greenfield this morning that he had received replies from only six of the 32 members of the committee and that all six approved the issuance of the interpretations. He expected replies from nearly all the others later in the day, he said.

Chairman Daley of the Democratic City Committee said he would not call a meeting of the committee to issue a call for ward meetings in St. Louis until he received from Chairman Neale a copy of the official call and the interpretations. The ward meetings may be held any time prior to April 15.

DRINK DEALER FINED $500 FOR HAVING WINE IN POSSESSION

Alex Fallon Pleads Guilty to Charge, but Contends He Had Carried Liquor to Meal.

Alex Fallon, proprietor of a former saloon at 6715 Manchester avenue, was fined $500 in the United States District Court today on his plea of guilty to a charge of illegally having wine in his possession.

The plea was entered yesterday. At that time his attorney told the court it had been Fallon's habit to take his meals in a room adjoining the saloon and to bring wine for his own use from his home on the second floor.

Bert Gregory, an enforcement agent, gave the court a different account today. He said he and informants had purchased wine from Fallon on three occasions and that the wine offered in evidence was taken from a pocket of Fallon's overcoat as it hung in the former saloon after Fallon had sold some of the wine to an informant who paid him in marked money which later was found in his cash register.

BOY BITTEN BY CAT IS TREATED

Body of Animal, Which Frothed at Mouth, Is Examined.

Francis Wright, 16 years old, of 4120 Virginia avenue, is under the care of doctors today because of his efforts to befriend a black cat that had taken refuge in the cellar of his home several days ago after it had been chased into the yard by a neighborhood dog.

The boy was bitten on the left hand. He was placed under treatment. He told policemen he went into the cellar yesterday evening to feed the cat and found it frothing at the mouth. He attempted to pick it up and it bit him. He killed it with a baseball bat. The body of the cat was turned over to the city bacteriologist for examination.

BUSCH RAILROAD BUYS ILLINOIS SITE FOR YARD

2500-Car Yard Planned When Approach to Free Bridge
Has Been Built.

The East St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad, owned by August A. Busch, yesterday purchased for $250,000 a tract of ground in Illinois, lying opposite the East Side approach to the Free Bridge, which will be developed into a 2500-car railroad yard as soon as connections with St. Louis have been established by the construction of the proposed Western railroad approach to the municipal bridge, provided for in the proposed $14,000,000 municipal bond issue.

The tract was purchased from the St. Louis syndicate represented by Charles W. Bates, an attorney. The property lies parallel to the Free Bridge approach at Twenty-ninth street in East St. Louis. It is 550 feet in length and an average width of 255 feet and at present lacks improvements of any kind.

In purchasing the property Busch is carrying out a plan to establish permanent connections between the East St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad and the St. Louis Manufacturers' Railroad, which he also owns. The connection will be made by way of the free bridge and is contingent upon the construction of the western approach.

Plan to Utilize Bridge.
William Catter, president of the Manufacturers' Railroad, discussing the proposed development of the Busch lines, in the absence of which, who is out of the city, said that in connecting the Manufacturers' and the East St. Louis & O'Fallon railroads, Busch's only plan was to utilize the free bridge for railroad purposes and to provide additional railroad facilities for industries along the river front of the city.

"We are not planning a fight on the so-called arbitrary," Catter said. "The most important thing is to bring about railroad utilization of the bridge. This arbitrary is a matter that concerns the Interstate Commerce Commission, and whether it is removed or not depends upon action by that body."

"The railroads are absolutely helpless in the matter of rates. Any attempt on our part to charge a lower rate for the same service than is now charged by the Terminal Association would subject us to a fine of $1000."

The Bridge Arbitrary.
"Relief, if it may be called such, from the arbitrary, must come from the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is beyond the authority of the city to fix the rates and any talk of the city compelling railroads using the bridge to charge a lower rate on coal hauled into St. Louis is foolish."

Catter said that conversations with various city officials, whom he declined to name, had convinced him that they are "extremely anxious to see the bridge put into service."

"I am certain," he continued, "that if the bond issue is passed and with it the $1,500,000 appropriation for the construction of a southern approach to the west end of the bridge, the city will offer no objections to the bridge being used by the railroads."

Use of Navigable Streams.
Catter declared that if objections arose and there was no likelihood of an agreement on the use of the bridge by the railroads and the charges for such usage, the railroads could then take the question before the Secretary of War. All questions concerning the use of bridges over navigable streams and the rates to be charged for said usage are within the Secretary's province, Catter said.

The "arbitrary" referred to by Catter is a charge of 20 cents per ton on all coal hauled into St. Louis from Illinois mines within a radius of 100 miles. Coal hauled from the same mines and delivered on the tracks of the Terminal Association in East St. Louis is free from this charge.

Catter said that the East Side property acquired by the East St. Louis & O'Fallon railroad yesterday will not be improved until the bond issue is decided at the May election.

Plans for Connections.
The O'Fallon road, which serves two large coal mines owned by the Busch interests at O'Fallon, Ill., 15 miles from East St. Louis, now has physical connections with the Terminal and the Alton and Southern railroads at points about three miles north of the proposed yard. Catter said that the O'Fallon line will connect with the property either through the construction of an independent track or by a trackage agreement with the Alton & Southern.

When the complete connections are established, Catter said, it will be possible to deliver coal to St. Louis industries from the East Side yard in two hours. Several hours are required under existing conditions, he said.

The Manufacturers' Railroad, Catter said, will begin the construction within the next two months of a five-block extension of the road's present line on South Second street to provide railroad facilities for existing and proposed industries in the section bounded by Walnut street, Chouteau avenue, Fourth street and Second street. Extension of the line will cost $75,000.

A franchise has already been granted for the construction of a railroad track along Second street from the present terminus of the road at Chouteau avenue to Poplar street. Efforts will be made, Catter said, to get permission to extend the track to Fifth street and build a system of switches west as far as Fourth street.

WOMAN MILK DEALER FINED
Mrs. Elizabeth Weltkneper of 2428 Market street was fined $25 and costs in Police Court today for selling ing milk, Dec. 4, which was deficient in solid content.

Testimony showed that Mrs. Weltkneper operated a dairy on that date, which has since passed into other hands, and that milk distributed for the city, samples of which were taken by city inspectors, contained 6.57 per cent solids, instead of 8.5 per cent, the required amount.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privilege, and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely existing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Let's We Forget.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Try as I may, I cannot banish from my thoughts the terrible tragedy enacted at Meyer's farm, Effington, Mo. Those who have read the horrible story of abuse to a motherless boy know, as it was true, that case, that there are other orphan children who suffer in like manner. Is there no remedy? Where are the hearts of the women? Is there no longer mother love for a deceased sister's child? Is it possible that our American wealth, time and love are to be squandered to the extent that the children are left to the cruel and indifferent, while the things of less importance receive every attention?
MRS. LILLIE SMITH.

"Doubtful Reservations."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
No adequate attempt could be made to correct all the misstatements that are made by Attorney-General Palmer, but I do feel that some check should be kept on the more important ones. Among these may be listed his original outburst that "the boys who went over the top didn't do it with reservations."
This is in Mr. Palmer's best style, but, like so many pretty passages, it has the defect of being untrue. Every man who went to Europe did it with reservations. Every man who pulled a trigger or fixed a bayonet did it with reservations. They were not the Lodge set, but they were a good deal more valuable, as events are showing.

I challenge Mr. Palmer or any other reactionary dogmatist to find one man who went over the top that didn't do so with the following reservations:
1. I do this with the understanding that it is for liberty of thought, speech, press and action (which Mr. Palmer is trying to crush).

2. With the understanding that it is not to be used as a means of making money for any class (as Mr. Palmer is allowing the profiteers to do).
3. That it is for the freedom of small nationalities (such as the aged and imperialistic gentlemen are now parceling out among themselves at the peace table).
4. That it is to uphold the American institutions established by Jefferson, Washington, Paine and Lincoln (and which Mr. Palmer is trying so hard to overturn and subvert).

5. That it is to bring about such a peace as will prevent future wars (instead of sowing seeds of conflict all over the world's surface, as is being done).
6. That it is not to establish a money aristocracy. (In America alone, 20,000 new millionaires were created).
7. That I am not fighting the Prussians in order to get their system installed in my own country. AN AMERICAN.

Against Daylight Saving.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Being aware of the fact that the directors of the Chamber of Commerce have approved the daylight saving ordinance, which has been advocated by the St. Louis Advertising Club, wish to state that this vote has been hung on the working class for two successive years, very much to their detriment, and it's about time to be using good, common sense and judgment when it comes to have the city pass an ordinance. It is not a question of saving anything as it is for the sporting element to have an extra hour of daylight in the evening (it being daylight up to 9 o'clock at night, under such an ordinance), to play golf or some other outdoor amusement, and, as a working man is aware of the fact that he is losing an hour's sleep in the morning during the hot summer months, which by nature is coming to him, as it is too hot, as a rule, up to about 1 a. m. to get the needed rest. READER.

For Our Soldiers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
To those who visit our Public Library this gentle word of reminder is offered that they may take particular and special notice of a receptacle placed just inside the door of the eastern entrance on Olive street with its pathetic appeal for magazines and literature for our soldiers now in the United States hospitals.

These men need every ray of cheer which we on the great outside world can possibly give them. Surely to drop into this box a book or pamphlet, paper or magazine which you have enjoyed and whose contents you have mentally digested, is a small return for their sacrifice of health, position and the ability to mingle with their fellows, all of which we enjoy, while they are shut in afflicted and probably lonely—a trouble almost worse than illness.

Hunt up your papers, funny ones, scientific ones, books of travel, adventures or discoveries and fill this box for our soldiers, who can never have too much of the best we can get for them. F. S. C.

Courses in Statesmanship.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
We seem to have plenty of efficient business men of various kinds, but very few statesmen. Our colleges have departments for graduating competent engineers, chemists, doctors, etc. Why not have a department to train statesmen? They seem to be badly needed in view of the lack of them in our Congress. We certainly need some improvement in that direction; if a plan can be devised it ought to be adopted. C. P. EVERED.

MR. WILSON GOES TOO FAR.

The President, in his letter to Senator Hitchcock, makes a strong argument for Article X, but there is a distinct impression, after a careful reading of the letter, that he overstates the case. Article X is so important in his statement that nothing else is left in the treaty or the covenant.

If all the fruits of the war, the safety of the nations, the guarantees against imperialism and the maintenance of peace depend upon the pledge of Article X as written, what of the remainder of the covenant, which Mr. Wilson himself has exalted as the sure guarantees of justice, liberty and peace? What of the articles which provide that notice may be taken of any dispute or menace to the peace of the world by the League; that disputes must be submitted to investigation and arbitration; that there must be delay in war-making and the articles which pledge all the signatory nations to resist wanton or unjust aggression of any kind, which would include attacks upon the political independence or the territorial integrity of a nation? What of all the machinery provided for the co-operation of the nations to prevent war and aggression, to establish justice, to maintain peace, to reduce armaments and improve and equalize economic and labor conditions, to substitute tribunals for arms in international dealings, to enforce law and order among the nations?

Mr. Wilson says the powers of Congress to determine the action of the United States in each case are implied and are recognized by all the nations. If this be so, the pledges of Article X have no more validity than Congress decides to give them. Our action with reference to them will be determined by the conscience and judgment of our representatives in Congress. If Congress is to decide our action under the original draft of Article X, what harm can there be in satisfying those who think there ought to be a specific, instead of an implied, recognition and assertion of congressional powers?

Let us reverse the statement. Is Article X, as written, so vital to the value of the treaty that it would be better to destroy the entire treaty, with its peace covenant, than to have the article modified to the extent that it declares what is implied with regard to the power of Congress? Is it better to lose the whole covenant of justice and peace than to modify one article—one or two or three articles? What becomes of the eloquent and forceful arguments Mr. Wilson has made for the treaty as a whole and for provisions which are not touched by the proposed reservations? Did they mean nothing? Is there really nothing of value in the treaty except Article X? Why were the other many provisions inserted, guaranteeing peace and providing the way to maintain peace and order and law?

We hold no brief for the reservations, but we believe in reason. Assuming that the treaty cannot be ratified without the modified reservations, is there reason in killing the whole treaty, in destroying all the covenant of peace and leaving the way altogether open for the return of secret alliances, imperialism, militarism, conquest and chaos? Shall we do nothing to save civilization because we cannot do all we want to do or all the President wants to be done? Is this reason? Is it sound judgment? Is it the way of broad and wise statesmen?

The Post-Dispatch supported President Wilson on account of the great cause of civilization—the cause of justice and liberty, the preservation of peace and the establishment of international law. We part with him in the course he is taking because we believe he is endangering the cause. If sufficient Democratic Senators obey his advice not to accept a reservation on Article X, or if he pockets the treaty, the whole treaty will be jeopardized. Peace and the guarantees of peace will be placed in grave danger. The course may be fatal.

The cause is greater than any man or any party.

UNETHICAL ANTIRENT FIGHT.

The Legal Aid Bureau has a plan to circumvent profiteering landlords. It would have tenants refuse to pay excessive increases in rent. When the landlord brings suit, the bureau, acting as counsel for the tenant, will invoke the law's delay. If a sufficient number of renters should strike, the Justice Courts, where the suits would have to be tried, would likely be clogged, with the result that the hearing would be indefinitely postponed. In the meanwhile, tenants could go on paying their present rent, or tendering payment. Should the landlord win, when the case finally came to trial, the judgment, according to the Legal Aid Bureau's explanation of its plan, would not be retroactive, the advanced rent becoming effective only on the date of the verdict.

This plan, it is understood, did not originate in St. Louis. It is said to have been tried in New Jersey.

We have found two once-popular proverbs that contradict each other. "What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," and "one man's pizen is another's pie." Now this won't do. Congress ought to drop the peace treaty and do something about this at once.—Nashville Tennessean.

where it is reported to have worked successfully. The plan is admittedly sharp practice. The fact that corporation lawyers have resorted to such trickery does not alter the character of this procedure.

The mild truth is that ethically this plan is questionable. That truth should not be lost sight of, however great the hardship of high rents. Our courts have been founded and organized to do justice. That is their function. This proposition is a scheme to prevent courts from functioning. It is a scheme to deny the landlord his day in court, regardless of whether his cause is just or unjust. If injustice cannot be estopped, or justice obtained, except by choking our courts into insensibility, then before attacking greed our lawyers should proceed to reform the courts.

The hotel proprietors will never collect all the traffic will bear as long as they neglect to charge an admission fee.

TWENTY-FOUR MILLION FOR PROGRESS.

It may be that by May 11 the census reports will present to St. Louisans unanswerable, overwhelming arguments on why they should approve the $24,000,000 bond issue to be submitted for their approval on that date.

If the census assigns to this city a lower population rank among American municipalities than it has had heretofore, the new classification should not be accepted as anything other than merely temporary. Will it not be a cause of pride hereafter that, before the enumeration was completed, St. Louis was already taking measures for drastic revision upward of the figures in 1920?

Arguments are formidable enough. Irrespective of what the Census Bureau may or may not show. No blank check is to be handed over to the city fathers to be expended as the appropriating power may desire. The people will do their own appropriating at the time they make the money available. Expenditure is limited to 18 specific projects and the amount of money to be devoted to each is carefully particularized.

The need for some of these projects is universally admitted. The city has awaited for years the time when they might be executed from the current revenues of the annual budget. The hope of so providing for them, however, has now become impractical unless large increases in already mounting taxation is to be added to the endless chain influences that keep cost of living at a high range. If we have these improvements, they must be paid for by bonds.

Of the total to be borrowed, $9,000,000 is to be devoted to the River des Peres. No modern city is justified in asserting a claim to progressiveness which retains so unlovely and disilluminating a feature as this noisome open sewer, with its offense to senses as well as health and its annual bill for heavy damage due to overflow. A vital part of this project is that a large area will be made available for industrial purposes, thus keeping within the city plants which, under the present tendency, would go to the east side or to the country.

For further sewer construction, $2,575,000 is devoted. For grade crossings $965,000 is set aside. What St. Louis will vote against this by no means excessive sum to remove an obstruction to quick transit and to protect human life? For a municipal auditorium, an essential if St. Louis is to continue the unofficial capital of the country, $900,000 is given. For municipal terminals which will connect the new industrial district with the railroad system, $1,170,000 is appropriated and for perfecting free bridge facilities $1,500,000. For such appealing objects as a workhouse farm, a tuberculosis farm and improvements at the industrial school farm, $1,666,000 is set aside.

A separate vote will be permitted every St. Louisan on each one of the 18 projects. If some projects seem unwise to a citizen, he can vote against them and at the same time support others of greater merit.

A point to be remembered is that interest on the $24,000,000 will not be immediately added to the annual tax rate. Expenditure will be spread over a long term of years, so that by the time the final millions of the bonds are sold the sinking fund will have wiped out a large part of the debt existing at the present date.

Will it require courage to approve this considerable sum? It is only a kind of courage other cities have shown in far greater degree by voting more millions than $24,000,000 for progress.

Do St. Louisans know that more than $8,000,000 worth of industrial construction under private auspices is now being carried on here? What risk is involved in joining with private initiative to plan for the future? A two-thirds majority is required. Will more than one-third so lack courage and confidence in the city's future as to vote no?

England is reported to be getting ready for the invasion of American millionaires. What the preparations are is not stated, but something is expected to pop.

The receipts of Patience Worth literature in six years amount to $1854 and the expenses to $5965. Shall the discrepancy be charged to the ouija board bill?

And now the Fords are climbing up to the higher price altitudes, once more verifying the claim that the Hoppling Henrys can go anywhere.

THE BRAIN WORKER, DOWN WITH HIM, HE HAS CLEAN FINGER NAILS.

CHALLENGE.

WE are so frail, so pitifully small,
We die like midges when the frost winds blow—
If this poor feeble shift of life were all
That our humanity should ever know!

Ere fairly risen, our dear sun of love
Senses its setting, and we see the sky,
So far, so faint, so hopelessly above,
While with weak wings its boundlessness we try.

Eternal spirit, who inspired our dust,
Who gave us ears to hear and eyes to see,
And hands to work and pray with hearts to trust,
Dire is our portion, if we have not Thee.

To give us courage as we blindly grope,
To give us strength, to fill our souls with light,
To drive out dull despair and lend us hope,
And faith, whose wings shall bear us up in flight!

For we would fly, who now must humbly crawl,
And we should shout, who now in weakness sigh—
Thou, Thou must be our newer life, our all,
Creative Love, or utterly we die!

Splendor of God, in whom we live and move,
And have our being—lo, we challenge Thee,
Redeem Thy promise, oh Supernal Love,
Transfuse us with Thine own eternity!

George Bernard Shaw says he is not coming to the United States. He has seen them in the movies, and he is, moreover, afraid we would lock him up for saying things such as some of our political prisoners have said. Bless you, George, that would not be the case. You could say anything over here, and no one would molest
you. We are terribly afraid of clever people, and there isn't anything we won't take from them.
We have never yet locked up anybody for saying anything with a bit of cleverness in it.
We have a good many people locked up for saying things, but in every instance it happened as it did happen because we could not discover a bit of cleverness in any of the things they said. That is one of the things that has caused the trouble. We are a peculiar people in that,
and nobody has hit us off better than Owen
Wilder did when the Virginian said to Trampas:
"When you call me that, don't forget to smile."
Most of the things which have landed our nonconformists in prison could have been said safely enough had there been the faintest suggestion of a smile in them. Even Mr. Palmer, fierce as he is, would, we dare say, stand a few wittinesses the government without getting into prison.
He will not, however, stand any stupidities.
That is all there is to be said for Palmer. We wish you would come over. Our radicals and cranks need to be shown how they can be criticized by the government without getting into prison, and no one could teach them better than you could. You ought to come right along. We all need witty things said about us. Nobody needs it more than the President. The Senate is fairly useless without it. The trouble with us is that the point could always be better and more effectively made as you would make it. The criticism of the President, for instance, does not reveal him to himself; it only locates his enemies for him. No man is afraid of someone who hates him more than he hates, but every man fears the opponent who surpasses him in cleverness of tongue. He is helpless before him. That has been your service to your time. Why couldn't you help us out a bit?

A COUNTRY OF READERS.

ARTHUR H. MAURICE in World's Work.
THE present age, fresh from a conflict which has blurred history in perspective, is inclined to appraise slightly the magnitude of the War of Secession. President Lincoln's early call for "75,000 men to put down the rebellion" has become persistently in the memory to perpetuate false impression. Actually, as against the 4,000, 600 American men in some kind of service at the time of the armistice of 1918, the four year struggle between North and South enlisted approximately 5,000,000 men out of a population little more than half as large as the population of the nation in 1917. By the light of the camps those men read and formed the taste for reading. Some of them read Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables," and others the "St. Elmo" of Augusta Evans. The particular book did not matter.
They took the taste for reading with them when they went back to plow or counter, and in a few years immediately following Appomattox, America was reading had its first real boom.

GERMANY'S INDEMNITY.

F. W. TAUSSEIG in Atlantic Monthly.
THE treaty of peace imposes upon Germany charges for reparations which cannot fall entirely far-reaching changes in the trade betwixt her and other countries. Through a period of years, more or less, she will be compelled to make heavy remittances to other countries. Without entering now on any close estimate of her obligations, it may be pointed out that they require a regular payment to the allies of sums quite beyond anything heretofore known in international transactions on government account. The German Government will have to effect payments which cannot be less than $10,000,000 a year and may reach, even exceed, a round billion.

PREVENTION OF PANICS.

PAUL CLAY in Forbes Magazine.
ALL panics are alike in that they all result from the overstraining of credit. It is exaggeration, spending in excess of earnings, or borrowing in excess of savings, that causes all panics.
Briefly, the way to prevent panic is to subdue the swelled feeling, and recall that pride goeth before destruction. If dealer and manufacturer, and producers of raw materials will consent to sell what lower prices even at the expense of short-term profits a little, and if wage earners will accept lower wages as the cost of living advances, and if everyone will give up a moderate fraction of the increase in personal income actained during the past few years, then there will be no panic. The way to avoid such disasters is to keep our borrowing within our savings, our expenditures within our income, and our commodities and goods prices at reasonable levels.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Reddy and Mrs. Reddy Are Patient.

He who is patient doth possess
That which leadeth to success.

REDDY FOX and Mrs. Reddy were disappointed that their clever plan for catching Peter and Mrs. Peter had failed. They had felt sure that if Reddy could drive Peter and Mrs. Peter out of the bramble-tangle it would be a simple matter for Mrs. Reddy to catch one or both of them. But Peter and Mrs. Peter had found safety in a hollow tree trunk before Mrs. Reddy had any chance at all to catch them.

But Reddy and Mrs. Reddy are not disappointed, and they never waste any time thinking about them. They always make the best of a bad matter, and this is what they did now. It was quite clear to them that if Peter and Mrs. Peter were inside that hollow tree-trunk, and of course they were, they must come out sooner or later. If they didn't they would starve to death, and before they would do this they would certainly come out. So Reddy and Mrs. Reddy agreed that they would take turns watching the open end of that tree-trunk. Reddy agreed to keep watch first. He lay down close alongside the trunk of the fallen tree where he could spring on Peter and Mrs. Peter the instant they set foot outside. Mrs. Reddy trotted away to hunt for Meadow Mice. When she had gone a little distance she barked three times. She hoped that Peter would hear her and know by the sound that she had left the place where he was hiding.

For two hours Reddy lay right where he was without moving. Peter didn't so much as put his whiskers outside that hollow tree-trunk. In fact, though he had kept his ears constantly on guard, Reddy hadn't heard the least sound from inside that hollow trunk.

At the end of two hours, Mrs. Reddy returned. She took care to come from a direction which could not be seen from the open end of the hollow tree-trunk. Very softly she tiptoed up and took Reddy's place. Just as softly Reddy trotted away. He also took care to keep out of sight of the open end of that hollow trunk. Reddy was gone for two or three hours. When he returned Mrs. Reddy was exactly as he had left her. It was plain that she had had no luck. When she saw Reddy coming she got to her feet very quietly and joined him a little distance from the old tree-trunk.

"They haven't made a sound," she whispered. "Of course, it is daytime and they are sleeping. They know they are safe in there and probably they will sleep all the rest of the day. But just wait until night comes. They'll never suspect us of patience enough to watch all day, and when they do, Reddy and I will be behind the Purple Hills they'll come out. Then we will be rewarded for our patience. Such a long watch wouldn't be worth while in summer, but in winter, when the ground is so hard, a rabbit dinner is worth almost any amount of patience."

Reddy nodded. "True, my dear, quite true," he whispered. "You go take a nap now and I'll watch."

So all that long bright day Reddy and Mrs. Reddy took turns watching for Peter and Mrs. Peter to come out of that hollow tree-trunk. And all that long bright day nothing happened. Finally jolly, round, red Mr. Sun went to bed behind the Purple Hills. The Black Shadows came creeping out across the Green Meadows and into the Green Forest. It was the time that Peter Rabbit best loves to be abroad, and Reddy Fox, hiding behind the fallen tree-trunk, sighed softly. He felt sure, absolutely sure, that Peter wouldn't stay in that tree-trunk much longer. The time had come when patience would be rewarded.

Bit of Fur Clings to Light Garb

Midway Season Well Interpreted in Light Silks and Chiffons Weighted Down With Simple Yet Extravagant Fur of Softest Textures.

By Louise M. Kellars.

SPRING and summer furs that justify their appellation are bound to be acceptable to the fashionable woman. She survives the ridicule that attended—and nearly blighted—the initial vogue of warm-weather furs in this country, and now she is to have her reward, or at least the opportunity to prove the wisdom of her course.

At one time the dress reformers and caricaturists the country over saw nothing but folly in the ensnathing of the neck and shoulders in suffocating pelts. Well, that was several springs ago. Today the furriers are using less fur and more silk, satin, lace and chiffon for the translation of the dressy garment that, Janus-like, must face both the departing season and the approaching one. Perhaps this is due to the greatly advanced price of furs or to the wish for a wrap that claims less affinity for the winter and a greater sympathy with the spring. Whatever the cause, the effect is distinctly different from that of preceding seasons. A woman may have her furs and yet be consistently appareled for summer.

The long-hair pelts have been eliminated almost entirely. And there is a color line drawn, too. For example, the gray furs are the most popular candidates for summer wear. Squirrel comes first, then mole. Chinchilla, if one likes and can afford to indulge the liking, as that South American pelt is conspicuous alike for its scarcity and its corresponding value. Summer ermine has its admirers. It is not gray, to be sure, but it is the next best thing; a lovely soft tan, delicately marked and to the touch as gracious as its better known variety, the pure white winter ermine. That, of course, is "fur" for a summer wrap. Nothing can exceed its beauty, but it is not practical for street wear, nor is it always becoming to the day-time complexion of the average woman. The prospects are that ermine will not become common. It will be used on occasions for trimming exquisite little wraps of diaphanous materials, or to outline the triple capes on a mantle of translucent silk.

Seal Vanishes This Spring. One hears little of seal in connection with the advancing months. The same is true of skunk, of beaver, nutria, and, in a less degree, of fox. The contrary is true, however, of broadtail, which has all the flexibility of a silken textile and none of the weight of the average fur. There is some talk of caracul, in white and gray as well as the so-called natural or tan color. Pelts that can be picked up in the hands and manipulated like a woven fabric are also taken care to keep out of sight of the open end of that hollow trunk. Reddy was gone for two or three hours. When he returned Mrs. Reddy was exactly as he had left her. It was plain that she had had no luck. When she saw Reddy coming she got to her feet very quietly and joined him a little distance from the old tree-trunk.

MILK.

MILK is one food which is considered indispensable in the diet of the sick. It is a complete food, sufficient to sustain life when the system is too weak to assimilate other foods. It is composed of 3.3 per cent of protein, 4 per cent fat, 5 per cent sugar, 7 per cent ash, and 87 per cent water.

There are two processes by which milk is made safe for just because it is so good a food, it is also an excellent medium for the growth of harmful bacteria, and milk that is not known to be pure should be either sterilized or pasteurized. In sterilization milk is heated to boiling and boiled 10 minutes, then quickly cooled to 40 degrees and kept at this temperature. This process will kill harmful bacteria, such as typhoid or diphtheria germs, but it breaks up some of the compounds of the milk, precipitates some of the salts, and renders the milk less easy of assimilation.

In pasteurization the milk is heated to 160 or 167 degrees, and kept at this temperature from 20 to 45 minutes. This kills bacteria and does not alter the composition of the milk as does sterilization, although it makes the milk not quite so digestible as raw milk. To carry out pasteurization without a pasteurizer, use two pails as a double boiler. The water in the outer pail should be brought to a boil, covered and removed from the fire.

Milk forms a clot as soon as it reaches the stomach and the digestion is completed in the intestines. If a patient has a weak digestion the milk should be diluted with water, lime-water, or barley water. This causes a separation of the casein, which is the protein of milk, so that the curd formed in the stomach is less tough.

Pure milk is the best food, diluted as necessary for the sick, but doubtful milk should be sterilized or pasteurized, since the danger from bacteria is worse than the slightly increased difficulty of digestion.

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS

TO use tin goods with perfect safety employ the following infallible test of preservation: Upon the first insertion of knife or punch listen for the air; if this is to be heard the preservation is perfect; turn out the contents of all the tins immediately upon their being opened.

In seasoning a fowl the flavoring may be improved by rubbing well into the flesh salt and pepper to which ginger has been added.

Soak beans overnight before par-boiling for baking.

Every sanitary kitchen should have a dish strainer.

Clean tin utensils with kerosene. It gives a most excellent polish.

To remove water from chopped spinach place it in a double piece of clean cheesecloth and twist both ends of the cloth.

Clean light trimmings on a dark dress by covering them with cornmeal saturated with cleaning fluid. When the fluid evaporates brush off the meal.

A mustard plaster should not be kept in the same place all the time. Just as much good is accomplished if it is placed a short distance from the spot affected.

As spring draws near the cook needs to keep careful watch of her menus and not let a day pass without providing the wholesome and pep-giving minerals.

SUN OR GOLD SOAP

IT is made by adding one pound of cleansed grease, spoiled lard or butter to each gallon of lye strong enough to float an egg. Set the soap in the sun and stir thoroughly each day until it is a good soap. This gives it a golden color and produces an excellent soap for washing. It may be used in washing even faces and fine cambric with perfect safety.

Luxurious in lines, rich in its soft brown tones and distinguished in quality is a between-seasons wrap of sable squirrel.

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake.

DON'T MOAN OVER YOUR LOST YOUTH.

THE way to get old is to mourn your departed youth. Mr. Tennyson once observed that "sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things," which is perfectly true.

And as soon as the man of 40 begins to wish that he could be a football star again, or run a hundred yards in 10 seconds, he begins to wish himself into old age.

As a matter of cold fact, any man who has led a well regulated life ought to be happier at 60 than at 20.

He knows more. If he has had any thrift or business sense he will have independence. He will understand more life, and enjoy pleasures of reflection that are unknown to the hot-headed youth.

And he would laugh just as easily—he better provided with the milk of human kindness, and be far, far better equipped for service to his fellow man.

We recently read an editorial by an old gentleman who ought to know better, in which he bewailed the passing of his appreciation of the beauties of nature, his thrills on reading Dumas, and his general lack of response to the joy of living.

At this gentleman's age—we suppose he is around 55—he should better enjoy Dumas, Dickens, Thackeray and Shakespeare than ever before.

A country scene should be more beautiful to him by far than when he was 20, and every emotion save the more boisterous ones should bring him a deeper feeling of contentment.

Youth goes, but it leaves behind it knowledge, and power and experience. William de Morgan, past 60, is writing better novels than he could possibly have written at 40.

Life means more to the middle-aged and to the old, if they have studied it, because it is better understood.

Old men moan over the vanished past, discourage youth and make the future seem cold and dreary. They should keep their grief to themselves. Youth has enough to worry about without gazing at dreiful pictures of bleak old age.

THE RUNAWAY PRINCE WHO LOVED A MARRIED "ZIZI"

Copyright 1920

WHILE he was under this pressure from various quarters, and not least from politicians, his wife was, under perhaps more severe pressure still.

"Indeed," says Serdici, "the greater part of the efforts to separate the couple were directed to bear upon her. A queue of Ministers, Generals and others filed into the home of the Lambros, which was guarded by police officers. There were days of incessant suffering for the young princess, when embassies came with propositions which, though clothed in flowery terms and delivered with profound respect, were, nevertheless, irreducible in their brutality."

"Among those who came, it is said, was a certain Gen. C—, who was heard from in the peace with pleasing manners. He had known the Lambros family for many years and was qualified to address them as a friend. This he did, telling the Princess that the country was unanimous in its sympathy for her, but that in view of what Rumania had suffered under German occupation the moment was a bad one in which to deal such a blow to the dynasty as the marriage involved."

This General held in his hand a paper which he politely besought the young wife to sign, probably a disavowal of the marriage. She held fast to her promise to the Prince, and refused.

She refused again, either on this occasion or another, when an offer of money was addroitly made to her. It is not believed the royal family knew of this offer.

To all who approached her, the nerve-racked bride of a prince made but one answer:

"When he comes to me and asks me to give him up, I will do so. I will then even leave the country if I must. But not unless he asks me will I yield."

At least three other Generals came. One was "mediocre but ambitious of obscure stock and doubtful reputation," according to the Serdici's notations; another was a relative of the Lambros, who spoke kindly and correctly, as a friend.

Still another was one "whose only title to renown was that of having reigned mad after a battle he lost in 1916." None of these visitors accomplished his ends. No more did a certain celebrated British Colonel, a man of great accomplishments and dash, who thought by his charm of conversation to succeed where his predecessors had failed. It was no use.

From the white-faced bride came invariably the response:

"I refer you to the Prince."

So the autumn of 1918 wore away.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE public at large remained in almost utter ignorance of what had happened. Rumors pervaded the capital, a few stories leaked out from the palace, from the ministries, but were denounced as untrue. The newspapers were silent. The vast body of people, the bourgeoisie, the shopkeepers, the peasants, had as yet no inkling of the extraordinary action of their Prince. And while it was inevitable that a few on the fringe of the court should know, they were sternly informed that the marriage was invalid, that it was an incident of trivial importance, and one of which the less said the better.

Prince Carol, released a few days ahead of the actual lapse of his sentence—possibly for "good behavior"—was forced to face both the inquisitive advances of people who knew only half the truth, and the innocent greetings of those who were unaware of any cloud upon his days.

To reappear at court under these conditions, to wear the mask of a careless young hero—this took great fortitude, in a way, than had yet been required of him. One may imagine, for example, the day when, peace having been signed, and Rumania a victor along with the rest of the entente, the King and Queen made a triumphal entry into Bukharest and insisted that Carol should accompany them. Over flower covered streets he rode at the head of a body of troops, responding as cheerfully as he could to the uproar of applause from the people and the "The Prince looks ill," it was remarked along the curbs. But none in the crowd knew that the illness was of the spirit.

He was indeed haggard and distraught after the weeks of solitude, varied by visits from important personages seeking to break down his resolution. They were willing now; they generally appealed to his patriotism.

"You will ruin Rumania," was one of their refrains, varied with "You have impaired the dynasty."

The appeal concerning injury to the country was what affected him most, loving as he did the very soil of the land with the passion of a Frenchman in his native acres. But he could not be moved to consent to denying his marriage. He had given his word, and his passion for the girl he espoused at Odessa grew only stronger with each assault.

It came on to be Christmas. The royal family returned to Jassy. So terrible had been the strain upon the Prince that he seemed to be pinning away. The court became alarmed.

"He must be permitted to see her," various advisers told the King—perhaps the Queen among them. So King Ferdinand eventually gave his consent that the Prince and Zizi might meet for an hour. This, shortly before Christmas, the young man and his wife, who had been in the same city for some days without seeing each other, who indeed had not met for three months, had an interview in the home and in the presence of one of the Queen's ladies in waiting. The latter, it is said, wept as she described the scene afterward.

"Never," said she, "have I seen a young man so racked by grief as Prince Carol."

According to her account the young couple again vowed never to forsake each other and to seize every opportunity for meeting and exchanging tokens of their affection.

For a month they saw nothing of each other. Finally, at the end of a "Te Deum" offered because of victory, the young wife caught a glimpse of the Prince as he left the church, among the pompous and gorgeously decorated court. She ran from her mother's side, pushed her way close up to the curb and just as he was getting into his automobile turned his attention, nodded and waved to him.

At this time she was in Bukharest only by stealth, for orders had been given that Mme. Lambros and her daughter should remain in Jassy. Later, however, thanks to persistent appeals, they were permitted to move back to the capital and to resume in a measure the life given up in the war panic of 1916. The house in the Avenue Domnita Anastasia was reopened and a faint semblance of animation returned to it. But the situation as regards the Prince and his wife improved not at all. The Government became more stern, who knew of his walks and notes to the Prince to pass. The smuggling of missives into the Prince's hands, despite the guards, no doubt became an art.

But it was necessary to resolve this depressing situation somehow. The strain was becoming too great for everybody, the danger of the country

The Board of Directors of the National Women's Association of Commerce in session at Columbus, O., adopted a resolution favoring the standardization of dress for business women to combat the high cost of living.

Magee Hints That the Cubs' President Exercised His Option but Not His Intelligence

Champion Herman Cables Terms for Fight With Wilde

U. S. Bantam Willing to Box in London for $25,000, With U. S. Referee in Ring.

WILL MAKE 118 POUNDS

British Flyweight Still Coy About Letting American In Over 116 Pounds.

Bantam Champion Pete Herman's ambitious program of seven bouts this month was knocked into the discard last Saturday, when the world's title holder was stricken with influenza and compelled to cancel his matches. Herman had just recovered from an enforced retirement of several weeks, due to an injury.

Meanwhile, Herman's manager, Sam Goldman, is going forward with efforts to arrange a fight with Jim Wilde to take place in London. Wilde is pledged not to fight Herman in this country, his manager states.

Herman had been offered $20,000 for the bout, but refused. In answer to a cable from Promoter Charles Cochran, London, asking Herman's terms, Manager Goldman wired the following, according to advices received here:

"Will accept contest end of May or early June. Expenses, 25 per cent of motion pictures. Wilde refusing to meet champion here probable cause of unfair criticism, thereby forcing me to insist on American referee. Easily selected by sporting writers. Must be 20 rounds. Weight, England and this country for bantam class, 118 pounds. Herman will weigh in at that figure. Under these conditions match can be closed."

It is now said that Wilde insists on 116 pounds from Herman.

How Good Is Lawler?

Whether Joe Levy, has again picked up a near-champion lightweight in Jack Lawler is a subject that may be clarified next Thursday night, at the Army, where the lightweight boxer in question will oppose Frankie Tucker, the Oklahoma.

Lawler seems as promising a boy as was Joe Rivers early in his career. Rugged, aggressive, bearing powerful shoulder muscles such as almost guarantee ability to hit hard and with facial lines indicating an unquenchable spirit, this lad has also made a great impression in several communities where he has exhibited. His recent appearance at Atlanta against Johnny Dundee was such that the reporters of every newspaper in the city revealed the referee's decision giving Dundee a draw. They agreed that Lawler had won.

His opponent, Dundee, Tuesday heard no bad news. Dundee showed that he was a good boy when he made Tommy Teague founder and cover at the Cincinatti. Dundee last show. Tucker is fast, clever and hard to hit. He also showed that he could safely take a resounding wallop.

Wants to Beat Kibby for $1000.

Tucker, who is managed by his sister, Elizabeth, and who is trained by his brother, Lonnie, thinks well enough of himself to offer to fight $1000 he can gain a newspaper decision over Kibby.

Bolae Is Brave, We'll Say.

Bolae Potthoff has a place on the Rialto A. C. card next Thursday. Many will remember Bolae as one of Washington University's great football players of other days. After leaving school he developed into something of a boxer and was at Great Lakes he put in a few more ticks.

In opposing Ora Dean, Thursday, however, he is taking on something different. Dean is just a preliminary or semi-industry scrapper; but he has an insuperable reputation as a boxer, when the latter first graduated.

Few amateurs hit on all cylinders when first they dare the professional debut.

JACKSON BEATS DUNDEE BUT MISSES KNOCKOUT

NEW YORK, March 9.—Willie Jackson outboxed Johnny Dundee in eight rounds at the Arena in Jersey City last night. Dundee fought back, but in the main his blows lacked the steam that was behind Jackson's right-handers. Dundee, though he found it hard at times, came back after every rally with an amazing show of stamina. Just when it seemed that he must go down before the fury of Jackson's onslaught, he would jump in at Jackson and drive him to cover.

Jackson tried desperately to repeat his feat of being the only man to stop Dundee, and it was all because of the latter's ability to take punishment and out-general Jackson when he was befuddled that he got by with a clean slate.

The sixth round was a bad one for Johnny. It looked like the finish for him for awhile, as Jackson started fresh for a knockout, but Johnny weathered the tempest and stayed up.

RIALTO A. C. TO HONOR THORPE-LONG TICKETS

Eddie Randall of the Rialto A. C. announced this morning that the tickets printed for the Thorpe-Lawler show would be used for the Tucker-Lawler show at the Army, Thursday night. Tickets sold for the Thorpe-Lawler show will be honored because of Lane's illness, will be honored Thursday night.

Rovers Hit Hockey Game.

The Rovers defeated the St. Louis Hockey Club 6-2 in the game played at the Winter Garden last night. Johnny Wagner of the winners scored three goals.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Champion of Champions.

TWENTY years ago, clad in knickerbockers, he stood up on a soap box in order to be able to cue his shots during exhibitions. They called him "Master" Willie Hoppe.

"Master" he was then, master he is now, in every branch of the billiard game. Years have only added to his luster and brilliancy; time merely serves to point out that in all the world there is no man in his class. In the sense of utterly outclassing all competition, there is no champion in any other line of sport who far transcends the opposition.

Yesterday, against Peterson, he displayed all the wizardry of old and showed that years have only ripened his judgment, perfected his mechanics and steadied his nerves. He is one of the best co-ordinated pieces of machinery performing in human guise today.

At New York, during the national championship tournament, last year, they tried to "gang" Hoppe. Most of the "gang" consisted of Charles Young, Schaefer, Cochran and Yamada (the complete list of billiard "hopes"), combined to play Willie in a manner they thought would beat him. They were going to play "safety" on him. They thought the open game would break up his good lies and prevent him from making his marvelous runs.

Played Into Willie's Hands.

Hoppe merely showed them up. Being a much better shot maker than they, he outexecuted them on difficult lies. In other words, when they left him hard ones he made them, just as he did the easy ones. Then he went on about his business and utterly outclassed them.

"The trouble with you guys," one indignant billiard expert told the highbinder quartet, "is that you haven't anything under your hats but a little hair and some concrete. You fellows play Hoppe, and Hoppe plays billiards. Think it over and you'll find the reason why you never beat him."

It's the answer, all right. Willie plays the game; and besides being master of the cue, he is master of himself, first. It's an unbeatable combination.

Hits St. Louis Boxers.

REPORTED ruling that the national amateur boxing championships, scheduled to take place in Boston next April, will not be accepted by the A. A. U., as try-outs for the Olympic games will operate to the disadvantage of at least two St. Louis boys, whose merit in the ring give them a look-in with the best.

These two boxers are "Peewee" Kaiser, the midwest amateur, who is without a peer in his class, in this vicinity, and Will Gockenbach, another hard-hitting and clever boxer. Both of these boys are as clean as new-fallen snow, so far as their amateur standing is concerned. Kaiser has repeatedly refused tempting offers to quit high school and go out into the professional game.

Both of these boys have fine chances to make good at Boston next year.

Kenrick to Play Soldan for Title

Scholastic Basket Ball Teams, Unbeaten in Their Class, Will Meet Saturday Night.

The scholastic basketball championship of the city will be decided Saturday night, when the Soldan and Kenrick High School fives meet at Francis Gymnasium. Local court followers have been interested since the early part of the season in bringing these teams together.

Soldan has gone through the High School League season without a reverse, while Kenrick's only local defeat came at the hands of the Washington University quintet. Kenrick has the best team in the history of the school, while Soldan is stronger than it has been in recent seasons.

This afternoon the High School League officials will meet to award the championship of that organization to Coach Plag's players. Kenrick is scheduled to play the Washington University freshmen, Thursday night; but will endeavor to have the contest played tomorrow.

Miss Cummings Low Medalist.

PALEA, Pa., March 9.—Miss Edith Cummings, Chicagoan, won the medal in the qualifying round of the women's golf championship, which began at the Bellair Heights club yesterday. She is a former national champion, got into trouble on the third hole and used one stroke too many to qualify in the championship final.

Baseball Leagues Meet.

President Phil Kavanaugh has called meetings of the Manufacturers and Bankers' Leagues of the Municipal Baseball Association for this week. The former circuit will meet at 415 North Ninth street tonight, and the Bankers at the same place Thursday. Any team wishing to enter should address Kavanaugh, care Sporting Goods Department, Grand-Leader.

Nebraska Not to Make Trip.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 9.—Following receipt yesterday of a telegram from Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., basketball champions of the Northwest, inviting Nebraska to play a game for the Western title, university athletic authorities decided it inadvisable to make the trip.

Britain Gives Golf Cup.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The Professional Golfers Association of Great Britain, through its secretary, Roland Perrins, has offered a gold challenge medal to be competed for in a tournament to be held in the United States under the auspices of the American Association, the proffer being made in appreciation for the benevolent acts of the American Professional Association during the war.

Jacques Fournier Joins Cardinals At Training Camp

Third Baseman Stock and Pitcher Tuero Only Members of Team Now Missing.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., March 9.—

Jacques Fournier, the slugging first baseman, finally has joined the Cardinals. The roster of players is now complete, save for the absence of Third Baseman Milton Stock and Pitcher Oscar Tuero. With Ferdie Schupp threatening to pull a come-back and with Jess Haines added to the staff, it makes little difference what Tuero does.

While Stock is looked upon as a fixture and would be sadly missed if he were out on one of the Cardinals face the Browns in the opening game of the spring series, April 3, it is generally believed that the diminutive third sacker will be on hand.

Fournier is expected to be a great assistance to the Cardinals. He is a natural born hitter and according to the baseball men who have watched him work since leaving the White Sox, he has greater power than any of the Cardinals on the job.

With these hit-makers on the job, Manager Rickey can afford to have some inferior pitching and still win. The new first baseman said he had left his home in Seattle Feb. 29. He laid over in Los Angeles one day and has been a full week on the train.

On his arrival he stated that he had been in the big league for a season, provided he had been retained by the Los Angeles club, but when an opportunity presented itself to again play in the big league he had accepted Manager Rickey's offer to join the Cardinals.

Fournier has been associated with Jim Scott, White Sox pitcher, in the wholesale oil business, with headquarters at Seattle. His delay in starting for training camp was caused by the fact that it was necessary to procure some one to look after his interests while he is away during the baseball season.

Cold Wave Hits Camp.

If any one says it doesn't get cold in Texas, even in the southernmost part, that party can get a big argument from the Cardinals, who were forced to remain indoors most of yesterday because of the cold and rain. The fellows took short walks in the city, the muddy conditions of the roads preventing any long tours into the country. Others went roller skating in an effort to loosen up their muscles. Manager Rickey's squad is due to return today from Hot Springs, Ark., where they have been on a four-day tour.

How Are the Mighty Fallen.

GOLDEN GATE, at one time a veritable grade of boxing stars, is reduced to a mere old man's pugilistic home. Where once the greatest fighters of the day flourished and waxed famous, not to mention rich, they now appear to be only a few hasbeens and fourth raters. Occasionally a Benny Leonard, bent on garnering the easy money, dashes in, but he is not the same. The old-time fighters of the Frisco exchanges are rank indolent. Pass persons like "Big Boy" (Pat) Moran, "Big Boy" Smith, Carl Morris, Jeff Clarke (the only black ghost in the world), Joe Mandot and others whose paths no longer trend upward and whose destination, retirement, is only a few paragraphs ahead, fill the news sheets.

The House That Jack Built.

THIS is the house that Jack built. This is the man that lived in the house that Jack built.

This is the guy that raised the rent one hundred and fifty-two per cent. And told the man if he couldn't pay to move his children and move away. And if he lingered around the roost he'd have to hand him another boost.

And he would have him to understand. Apartments now are in great demand. And he must give him a 10-year lease.

With fifty per cent each year increase. And he must keep it in good repair and pay for the usual wear and tear.

If not, said tenag he would eject. And a whole lot more to the same effect. From which we gather it was his plan.

To make it comfortable for the man that lived in the house that Jack built.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

UNASHAMED.

I want to be nominated for the vice presidency.—Senator Calder.

A student of politics most of our life,
We have witnessed the broils and dissensions,
And thrilled with delight as we gazed at the strife
And noise of contentions conventions;
But never as yet have we known of a case
Of a man with a candor undaunted
Who brazenly said the Vice President's place
Was the job that he honestly wanted.

T. R. was averse to no publicist's job (Provided, of course, he could pick it);
But well we recall how he simply raised his
When they begged him to "round out the ticket."
When Fairbanks was mentioned, his whiskers he rent,
And acted distraught and demitted,
Although, still avowing he never would consent,
(As Byron observed) he consented.

Doc Bryan was offered the place once or twice,
When the job higher up was refused him;
But, though they had carefully loaded the dice,
Their blandishments never enticed him.
While Thomas R. Marshall declaimed himself hoarse
In strenuous efforts to shake it,
And when he was chosen they had to use force
Before they could get him to take it.

Yet here is a man who is proud to declare,
With never a single condition,
That to hold for a while the Vice President's chair
Is the height of his earthly ambition.
He certainly catches us off our guard,
No claim could be bolder or bolder;
He's after that job, and he's after it hard,
And we'll cheerfully hand it to Calder.

An After-War Bride.

A returned soldier and his sweetheart called on a Judge to marry them. The Judge married them, and, apparently satisfied with his work, he said to Vic: "Salute the bride." For an instant the groom was flustered. Then he took two steps to the rear, came to a distinct halt, clicked his heels together and gave Mrs. Vic one of the "doughboy" finest. "Oh, well, I guess that will have to do," sighed the Judge as he signed the license.—Argonaut.

WHY HE NEVER CALLED AGAIN

A young man recently called on a girl in town, and she has been wondering ever since why he never called again. During the evening while she was playing the piano, he leaned over her shoulder, her hair brushed his cheek, and he caught a faint whiff of the odor of rancid, sour, neglected hair. Naturally, he never called to see her again.

When a young man calls to see a girl, it is perhaps with the purpose of trying to decide whether he wishes to spend the rest of his life in her company. It is only natural that he should study not only her attractiveness and learn about her disposition and views of life but he watches her constantly. If her hair is frosty and neglected or has a faint disagreeable odor from excess oil or perspiration,
it repels him and he stays away.

You can easily keep your hair clean, fragrant and lustrous by shampooing it once a week with COCO-NOL, the delightful cleansing shampoo that is made from purest cocoa-nut oil, especially for shampooing.

Try a COCONOL Shampoo today and see how soft, silky, sweet smelling and lustrous it will make your hair. It does not dry, split, discolor or injure the hair in any way—and only costs 25 cents a box—at all first-class toilet counters.
